A psychic intuitive answers all the most common questions about life after death, along with remarkable firsthand accounts

Based on his own amazing experiences of life between lives and his numerous communications with those who have passed over, Barry Eaton answers the questions about the spirit world that everyone is longing to ask. He discusses what happens when someone dies: what it feels like, what the tunnel experience is all about, and whether there is any such thing as a life review. He also offers answers as to why some people find it hard to leave places and loved ones behind, how those who die in accidents and other sudden deaths fare, and how our grief impacts those who have passed on. He further explains how those who have passed over see time, why they return to their soul families in spirit, whether they reincarnate, and if so, what input they have in their life to come.
